Join Bell retirees and team members for the Walk So Kids Can Talk on May 7

The 2023 Walk So Kids Can Talk will take place on Sunday, May 7 at multiple locations across the country. As a proud partner of Kids Help Phone, Bell is inviting all team members and retirees to make a difference by signing up for the 5 km walk, by participating virtually or by making a donation supporting a participant or a team.

You can register by visiting walksokidscantalk.ca/Companies/Bell-Canada. Select Bell in the drop down menu on the registration page to join or create a team.

Kids Help Phone launches Feel Out Loud

Bell is continuing our longstanding partnership with Kids Help Phone and creating positive change through our support of the upcoming Walk So Kids Can Talk and more.

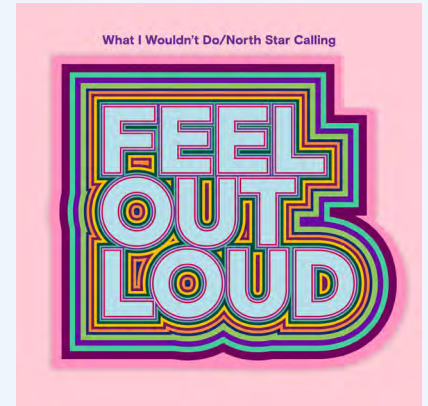

On March 2, Kids Help Phone launched Feel Out Loud, a historic, national movement anchored by a fundraising campaign with a goal of raising $300 million to reach young people in every corner of Canada by 2024 by expanding access to its e-mental health services. Bell is a founding partner of Kids Help Phone and Feel Out Loud is supported by a transformational investment of $15 million each from Bell and BMO. These investments will enable Kids Help Phone to scale e-mental health access to support in communities across Canada. Bell CEO Mirko Bibic is also an Honourary Co-Chair of the Feel Out Loud campaign.

Artists for Feel Out Loud

To kick off the campaign, Artists for Feel Out Loud, a collective of more than 50 music artists from across Canada, have come together to create an anthem in support of Kids Help Phone's initiative to help all young people in Canada feel out loud and express their emotions in a safe and supported way.

The anthem titled What I Wouldn't Do (North Star Calling) weaves Serena Ryder's inspiring message and profound lyrics from the song 'What I Wouldn't Do' with Leela Gilday's sonically beautiful bridge from 'North Star Calling'.

2023 cost of living adjustment

To offset increases in the cost of living, Bell's pension payments are adjusted according to an indexation formula. The indexation rate applied to Bell pensions as of January 1, 2023 is 2% for retirees under age 65 and 4% from age 65.

For those who retired during 2022, the indexation rate is prorated to the number of months since their retirement date.

2023 Certification of Pension Entitlement

As part of good governance practices, Bell Canada conducts an annual audit of pension recipients. Every year we select a group of pensioners in the BCE group of companies and ask them to complete a Certificate of Pension Entitlement to ensure that payments are reaching the appropriate individuals.

Our next audit will take place in the spring. Audited pensioners will receive a form to complete and to send back to the Pension Department as soon as possible. Furthermore, the online tool for the pension audit will be available on the Benefits site (bell.ca/mybenefits) for audited pensioners who want to submit their forms online.

Louis A. Tanguay Recognized by the Montréal Sacré-Coeur Hospital Foundation

Pierre Rodrigue, Vice-President, Québec Affairs, presented the Émilie statuette to Louis A. Tanguay, accompanied by the President of the Board of Directors, Bernard Pitre.

Louis A. Tanguay, a Bell retiree and former president of Bell Québec, was recently honoured for his 30 years as a volunteer with the Sacré-Cœur Hospital during the Gala des Émilie. The annual gala celebrates the commitment and dedication of volunteers and healthcare professionals from the Sacré-Cœur and Albert-Prévost hospitals.

Louis has been a member of the Montréal Sacré-Coeur Hospital Foundation's board of directors since 1987. A mentor to many, Louis put his extensive knowledge of the business community to good use by mobilizing his peers in support of hospital initiatives. He still sits on the Foundation's committees to organize benefit events and to ensure the sustainability of high-priority Sacré-Cœur and Albert-Prévost projects, affiliated with the Université de Montréal.

Louis was also the Honorary Chair of the first edition of the Gala des Émilie, the same event that years later paid tribute to him as a great philanthropist.

Congratulations Louis!

Remembering the 1998 Québec ice storm

It has been 25 years since the January 1998 ice storm – the worst natural disaster in Québec's history. It was also one of the most significant events in Bell's history, requiring a massive mobilization of human and material resources to minimize the storm's impact on the communications network.

Thanks to a robust network and the rapid deployment of emergency teams, Bell was able to maintain telephone service for 98% of our customers.

The sense of solidarity that developed from the very beginning of the storm, and the speed with which our teams adapted were remarkable. Knowing the colossal task at hand for the installation and repair teams, all of Bell's technicians in Québec and their colleagues in Ontario rallied to support those who were impacted. Technicians from Atlantic Canada, including Island Telecom in Prince Edward Island also stepped up to assist.

As the storm progressed, the Government of Québec asked the Bell Emergency Operations Centre to set up a call centre to be used by the Department of Public Safety. Our teams took just four hours to open a helpline to take calls from citizens. The Telephone Operator Department doubled their efforts as the storm had resulted in an unusually high number of calls. At the height of the storm, telephone operators received three times as many Directory Assistance calls as usual, and twice as many long-distance calls.

A big thank you to all Bell retirees who were involved in our storm response efforts.

Bell Let's Talk Day creates positive change for our partners

On January 25, Bell Let's Talk Day invited Canadians to take action and focus on the importance of the support offered by mental health partners across Canada. Individuals, communities, governments and organizations took meaningful action to help create change where they live and work. One in two Canadians said this year's campaign encouraged them to take action related to mental health, according to an online panel survey by Angus Reid Group on behalf of the Market Knowledge Centre (MKC).

The campaign was a big success for our Bell Let's Talk mental health partners too, encouraging people to learn about the support and services they provide. Here's how the following featured organizations were impacted in a positive way:

- Jeunes en tête has experienced a significant growth of 51% in new users for their online tools and 35% in Google searches.
- Foundry has doubled their amount of first time visitors on their website and noticed an increase of 40% in engagement on Instagram.
- The National Association of Friendship Centres website had a 96% increase in new visitors and reached over 33,000 visits on their Facebook page.
- Web traffic for Rise increased by 948% on Bell Let's Talk Day.

Bell is hiring more team members for high-tech roles

Bell's goal to recruit more high-tech professionals was highlighted in a La Presse article that featured interviews with Bell's executives.

The article notes that "while the technology industry is cutting jobs by the tens of thousands, Bell Canada is taking the opposite route: the telecommunications company wants to hire a thousand people." It also mentions that new hires will be "mainly assigned to 'high-tech roles' such as cloud computing, networking, cybersecurity, the Internet of Things, artificial intelligence and software development." You can read the full article in French at lapresse.ca.

If you know someone who would be a great fit for a high-tech role at Bell, please encourage them to apply. To search for specific job openings, visit Jobs at Bell.

Retirements

These Bell team members have agreed to announce their retirement and years of service in the newsletter.

Bell Hockey Classic contributes $20,000 to mental health

On Friday, March 31 and Saturday, April 1, the Bell Hockey Classic tournament returned after a 3-year hiatus, welcoming more than 500 players of all skill levels from across the country. The tournament has a long history, going back to 1903, when Bell team members first competed in what was then called the President's Hockey Tournament against Northern Electric.

This year's event was organized by Stephen Howe, Bell's Chief Technology and Information Officer, who welcomed participants to Toronto to enjoy hockey, promote mental health and physical fitness, and have fun. Special guests lending their support at the event included former professional ice hockey player Wendel Clark and Olympic Women's Hockey Gold medalist Jennifer Wakefield.

Thanks to the participation of all players and supporters, the tournament will donate more than $20,000 to local charities supporting mental health initiatives, including Yorktown Family Services, North York Women's Shelter, Canadian Mental Health Association Toronto, and North York Harvest Food Bank.
